Images of D.H.S.
Are scattered throughout the place
Images of things not yet known
Or of a familiar face.

Images of yesterdays
Reflections of the past
And through the years the image stays
The memories forever last.

Images of tomorrows
Of good times and of sorrows
Places all have been before
Images reflecting an open door.

Images linger in the classrooms
Travel through the halls
They are anything we might see
Or any voice that calls.

For everyday that comes to an end
A brand new image will begin
We'll remember every single friend
And we'll reflect on what has been.

D.H.S. is a feeling
A feeling from deep inside
D.H.S. is our school
An image filled with pride.

The staff and faculty of DCHS in bits of hours, day after day, build the mosaic that forms the complete image of our school life. Locked firmly in our memories is the sight of the end of a bus pulling away, the smile of a cook as she hunts that last chocolate chip cookie, the rooms that, somehow, are every morning paper wad free, the raised eyebrows of a secretary as she hears our completely legitimate reason for being late, the tang of sweat and the feeling of a working muscle counterpointing the instructions of a coach, and perhaps the most firmly entrenched image of all, because it is repeated over and over, the scratch of chalk and the shuffle of paper as a teacher assigns another homework lesson.

It is hard for us to realize that these images are not only what we are but what we will be. It is this that makes them care so much. They are giving us the elements to build our dreams. For all the dedicated staff and teachers that have let us look backward and who daily make us face forward to that "someday" image of ourselves, thank you.

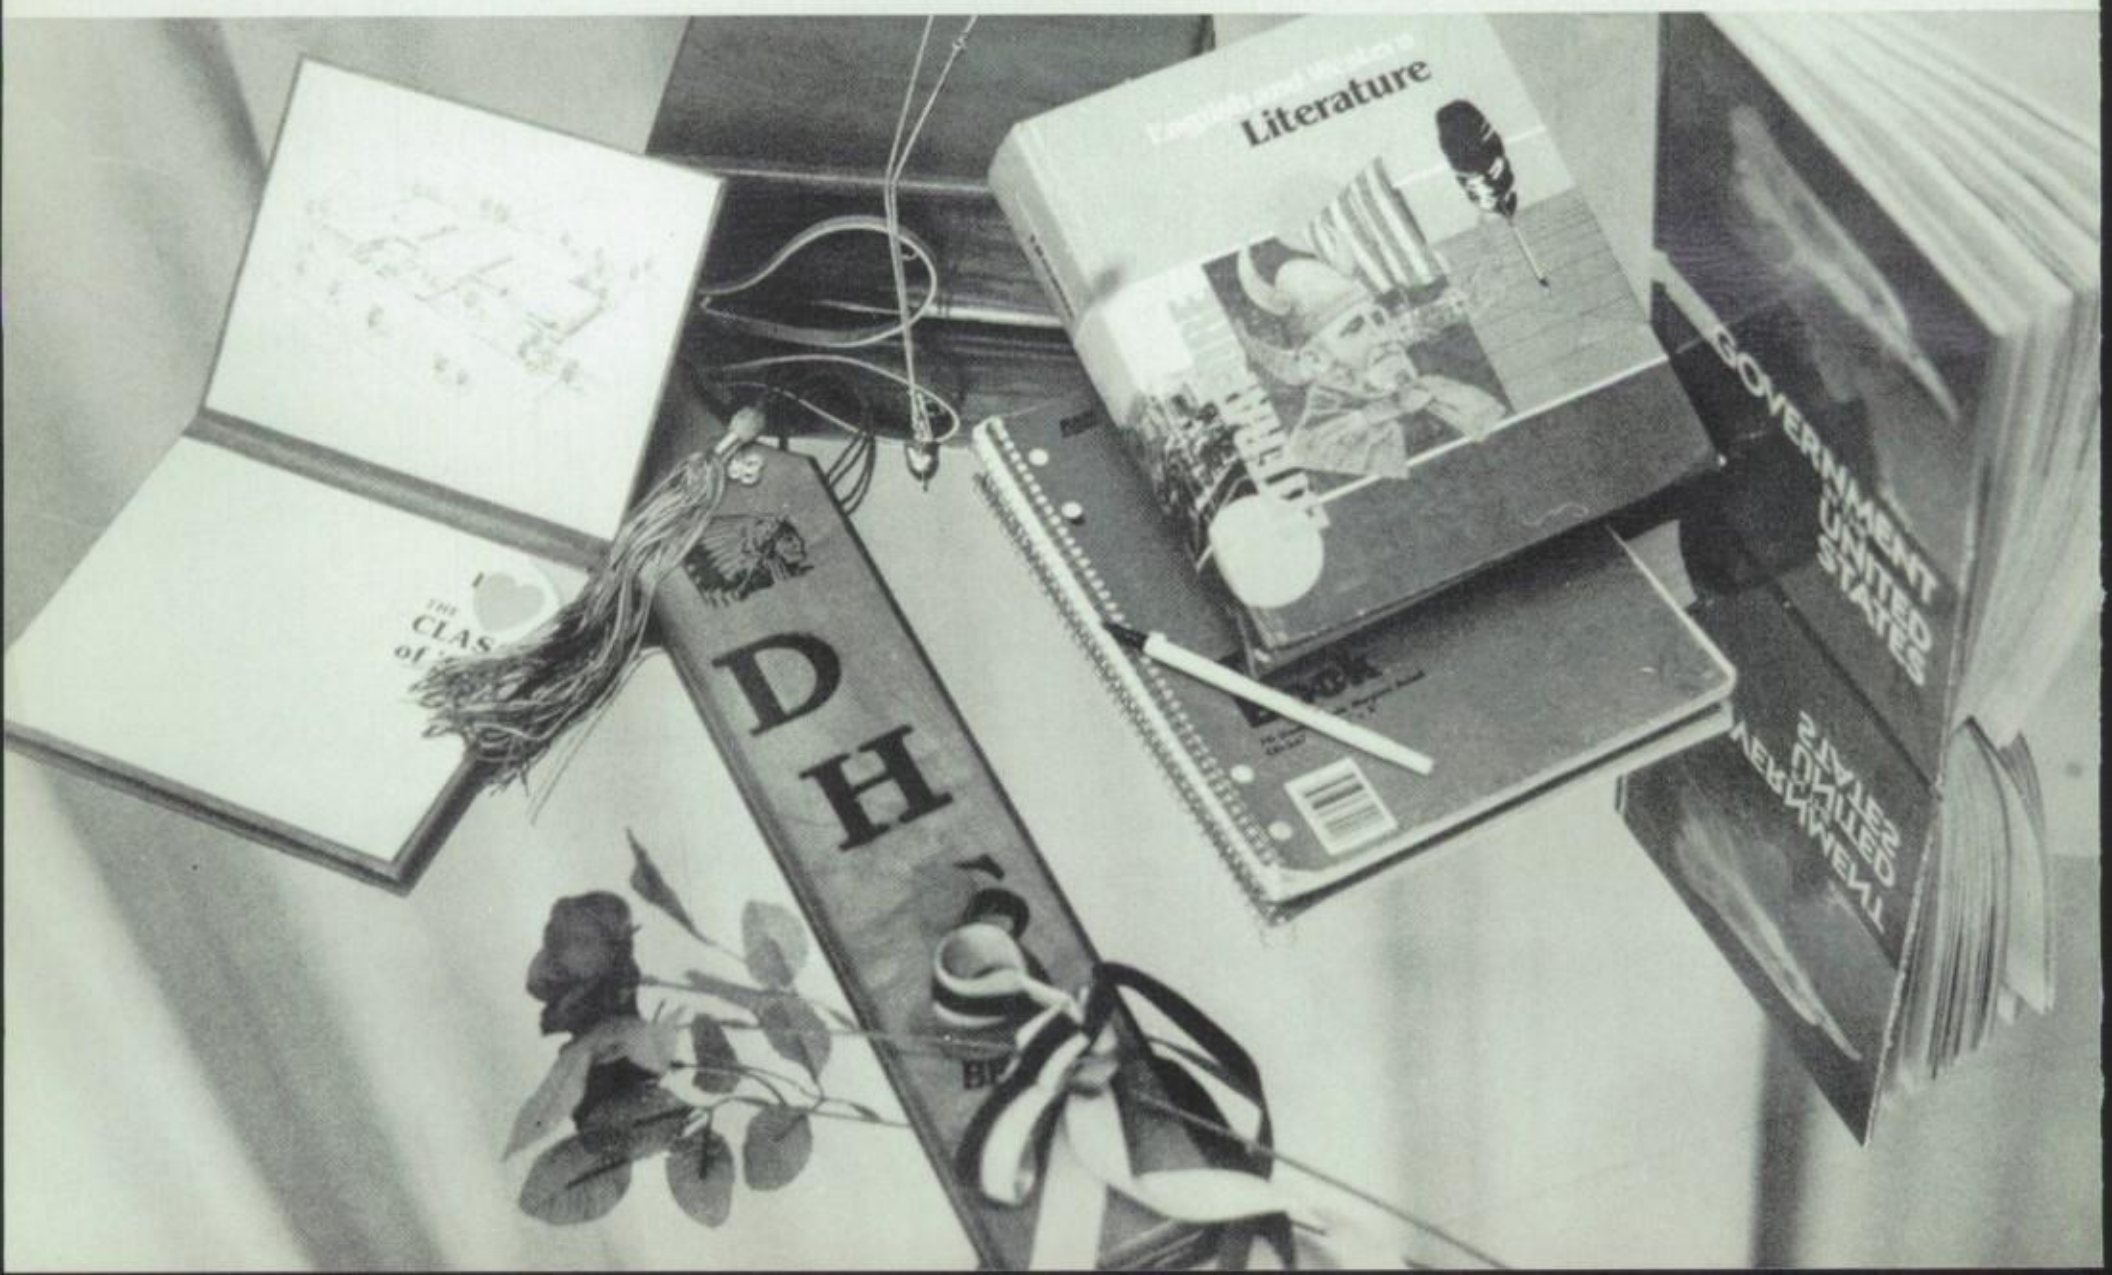
SENIORS



It's the last step of childhood, the first of adulthood, our senior year. We have probably spent more hours in front of the mirror studying our changing images than anytime since our early teens. There is a sense of being fully grown. We feel new emotions, dream new dreams, experience new fears. Very shortly we know we must embark on a life outside of this well known place, Danville High School.

For the first time we begin to look back, marveling at what we were, trying to discover a comparision of past images to present ones. We are in search for clues of the future.

It seemed to take so long to become a senior. But, looking back, the time seems to have gone by so quickly. Wasn't it only last week the Tooth Fairy was leaving quarters? Wasn't it only the day after, that we were skinning knees on the playgrounds of North and South Elementaries? Wasn't junior high and the eighth grade dance only a couple of days ago? Didn't we come here as scared freshmen yesterday? Where has the time gone?

Have we really slammed lockers that many hundreds of times? Have we really stood in so many lunch lines? Passed that many notes? Studied for so many tests? Found so many friends? Made so many memories? Stored so many images of school life and times? Looking back at our school years, looking out on the year ahead, we know that we now must take and shape the future so that the image of what we now dream becomes reality.

DCHS was fortunate this year to have four exchange students. Krista Kannos, is here from Finland, Torben Maj, from Denmark, Olaf Brendenbals and Goetz Groebler, both from West Germany. All four of these students have become a part of our senior class. Seeing new faces, making new friends, becoming part of a new home and facing longer school hours has our new class members some images that will last for years to come.

Pretty faces, joyous smiles, and sweet personalities characterize our Queen and princess candidates. During the homecoming game the candidates with their handsome escorts at hand, await the all important announcement. The time is near and the girls tremble with suspense each hoping it might be her. The announcement is made, and tears of joy and excitement are visible. The waiting is over and many dreams have come true.

There's a saying that you can never go home again. But each year at DCHS we provide for an evening the opportunity to do just that. Although the festivities and traditions that surround Homecoming may change, the images will remain sharp and always accessible.

Homecoming may be for the alumni, but it is created by students. It is this act of creating which leaves the images that our memories will evoke in October every year of our lives.

The cold nights of float building, the laughs and action of the Powder Puff game, the hilarity of dressing for Spirit Week, the headaches of arranging the parade, and the scramble to find enough convertibles to display the princesses will always be on tap. There, too, will be the memories of the hush that quiets the rooms as the names of the queen candidates are called, the rowdy chants of the Spirit Breakfast, the sound of whistles and the groans and cheers of the crowd at the big game. Image upon image, always there, always alive, a personal gallery of memories that will forever mean Danville.

CLASS OF '61

Happy twenty-fifth anniversary to the class of 1961.

THE '85 WINNER JUNIORS

The hard work and creativity of the Junior class brings them honors as first place winners in the float contest.

Many school and community organizations participate in the traditions of the Homecoming Parade. The crowd gathers about the square, filled with the spirit of the day.

The evenings festivities begin with the bands marching to the beat of the school song, the Grand Marshall waving to all with smiles of joy, the pulling of the class floats built with hard work and determination, Tiffany Bair returning to end her reign, and small children running after painted faced clowns, who are throwing candy.

Anticipation and excitement is what makes the parade a success each year. The image of the Homecoming parade is one that can never be erased or duplicated.

The Grand Marshall for Homecoming 1985 is Mrs. Rosemary Helton, who has taught in Hendricks County for 41 years, 29 of those years at DCHS. She is driven by Senior, Jamie Visker.

Reflections Of A Victory

Danville 27 Cascade 21

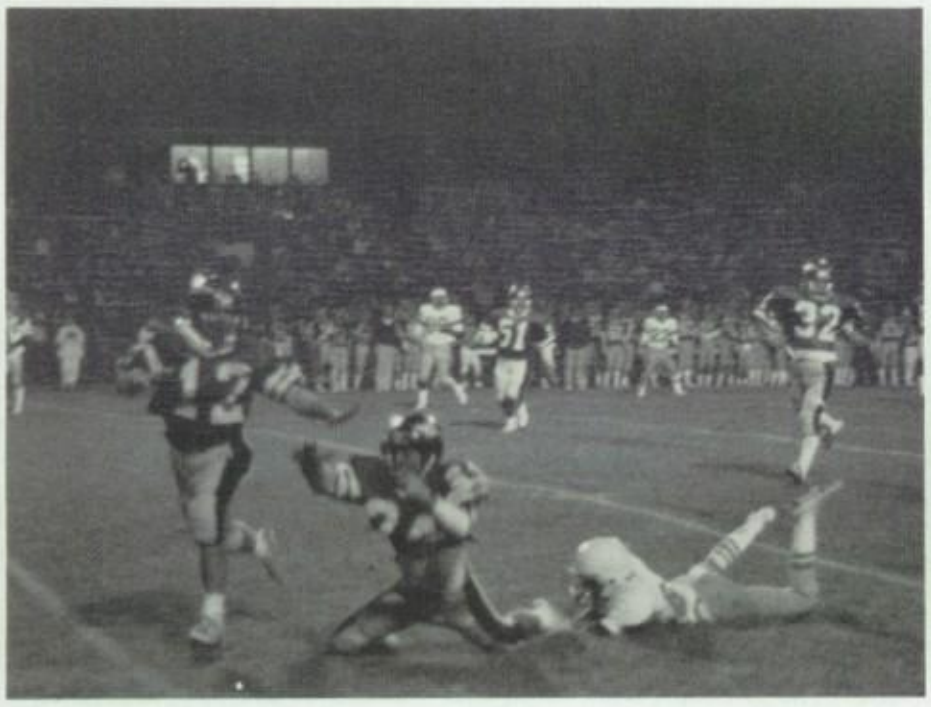
Couldn't we just get on with the game.

This year's homecoming game was full of surprises, excitement and memories. There is hardly a dull moment in our minds because Danville scores in the first quarter and a victory seems to only be a matter of time. Cascade, however, pulls ahead by the end of the second quarter, but the Warriors come fighting back in the second half.

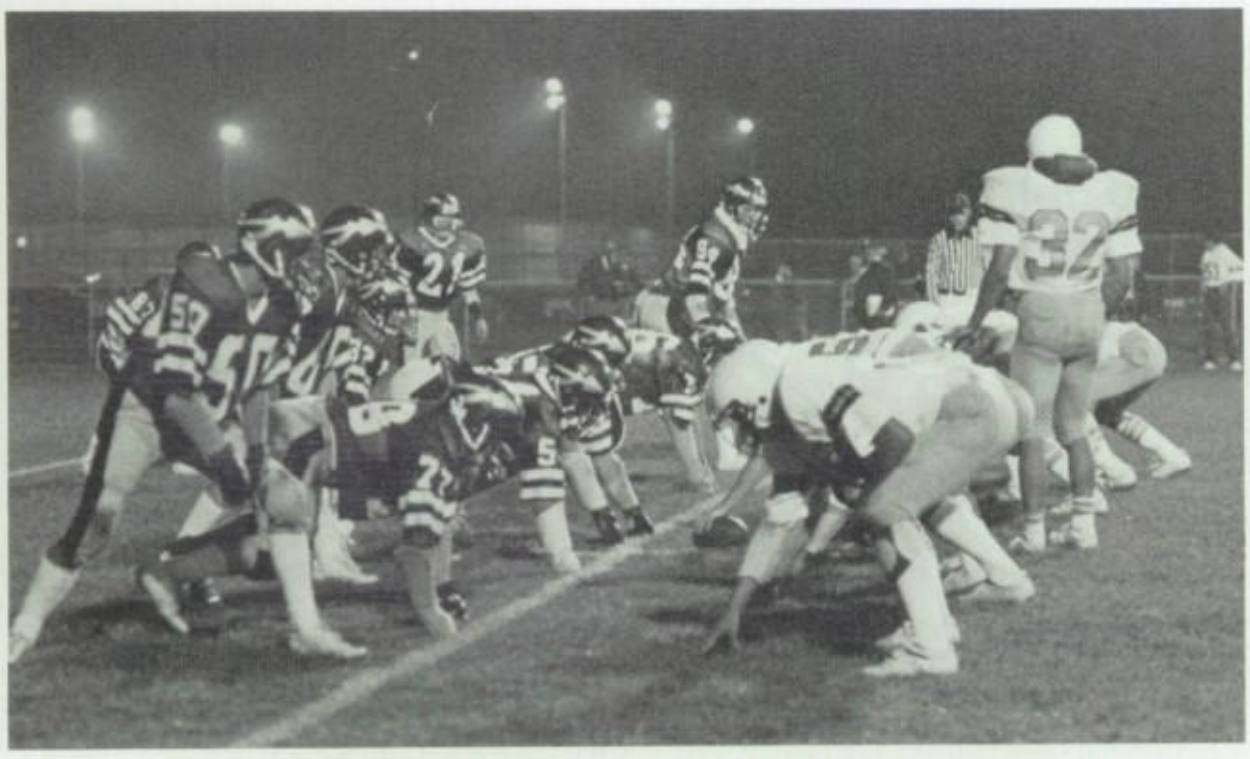
By the end of the fourth quarter the score is tied 21 to 21. There is to be an overtime and everyone is on his feet cheering for a win. It is Cascade's ball on the second yardline, and Danville's fans watch and worry. Suddenly the scrambling Mark Robinson intercepts a pass and runs for a 102 yard touchdown. There are cheers and screams of enthusiasm throughout the stadium. A perfect Danville Homecoming is over.



That's alright. I'll get it for you, Wade.

The crowd enjoys the game.

Mr. Referee, Danville is so mean. Could we rethink this?



Watch out Stacy! Here comes Tracy!

David, where is everyone else?

Hey, he hit me and it hurt!

Where are you going? We won!

The fighting Warriors break for a victory.

Gee, I wish they'd let me play too.

"Volleyball was a lot of hard work, even before school began. It was fun and exciting. We had lots of good underclassman and we had a good season." Becky Moreland

VARSITY VOLLEYBALL

Our 7-16 record was primarily due to a young + inconsistent team who made some mental errors. We did have six wins in the middle of our season to show our potential, but we couldn't keep up the momentum. We did gain valuable experience in skills, in developing mental toughness, and in being a team. Volleyball is a sport played by six individuals working hard as a team. When we stressed that concept, we won.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Congratulations to the 1985-86 Freshmen Football Warriors. For an outstanding season. After a very rugged 1-2 start you pulled together as a unit to win the last 5 games in a row. The season was highlighted by many long runs, big plays on special teams, and even a few slobber-knockers on defense. I wish you continued success in your remaining 3 years at Danville High School and remind you not to let anyone keep you from falling short of your goals.

The 1985-86 VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM has been marked by much success at this point in the year. The players have demonstrated, through hard work and determination, their desire to make this season memorable to the Warrior Community. The players are to be commended for the contributions each have made to the team. STUDENT COUNCIL

Working quietly and often behind the scenes lay a very responsible group called the Student Council. This collection of individuals includes class officers as well as council members. The Student Council under the direction of Mr. O'Brien organize the Homecoming celebration and stand ready to assist the school personnel whenever possible. An active group of highly qualified students make the DCHS council a dominant leadership group.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Orelup the National Honor Society displays an image of excellence. The requirements for membership include a grade point average of 3.0, character traits such as leadership ability, scholarly discipline, and an ability to serve at school and in the community. Once a student has made the grades, received recommendation, and given of his time, he is ready to enter the National Honor Society and begin serving as a tutor, organizing homecoming games, donating to the community and beautifying the school yards. Honor Society members are looked upon as good examples to follow—and for good reason: they give of themselves and sometimes do not receive the benefits until much later. They are inspirations to all and stir up the desire to strive for excellence.

CLASS OFFICERS

The class officers at D.C.H.S. have a big job to do no matter which class they represent. Being a class officer means guiding the whole class and organizing the many ideas to make them work. The Freshmen as newcomers in the High School work the hardest to make a positive impression at homecoming and throughout the year. The Sophomores are getting "the hang of things" and are enthusiastic about the Halloween Dance they help sponsor. The Juniors are so busy working on the prom that they hardly have time for anything else. Then there are the Seniors always striving for those lasting memories and an organized graduation. For each class the tasks necessary to develop unity and pride are established by the class officers. They work hard and it shows.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS: (L—R) Pres. L. Kerlin, Vice Pres. M. Biddle Tres. A. Roberts, Sec. A. Donovan.

French

D.C.H.S. offers its students the chance to travel to foreign lands through the French and Spanish Clubs. The French Club, or Cercle de Francais and the Spanish Club, or Arculo de Espanol both offer the students the chance to see beyond their own lives to other people and other cultures. Organizing, playing games, singing and eating are only a few of the activities that allow the two clubs a chance to "travel" the world.

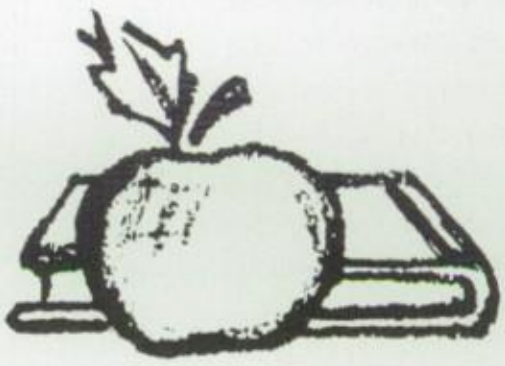
The members of the library club spend their time working on a variety of jobs including—running the library, taking inventory, and helping other students check out books.

These jobs offer them the experience and skills needed to qualify for jobs pertaining to libraries and bookkeeping. It also gives them knowledge and insight on the importance of libraries in each community.

Although much work is put in by the members throughout the year they do get together and find time to relax. Two days are set aside simply for enjoying one another's company.

Keeping the library running smoothly and conveniently are the main goals of Library Club.



Audio Visual

A.V.: A. Wilson, M. Lane, T. Hays, A. Kennedy, M. Miles, S. Berg, Miss Selsor.

Audio Visual is an organization for students interested in audio and visual aids. Audio Visual students also help the music and athletic departments, by recording concerts and filming athletic events. Repairing film, ordering materials, delivering TV's and VCR's, and making recordings are only a few of the services that the A.V. students do under the direction of Miss Selsor. By participating in A.V. the students open a wide variety for career choices.

The TRI-HI-Y has come to be known as a support group where members are encouraged to discuss the common problems of today's youth. Bible studies are held to help the members better understand religion. Active in the community, as well, the TRI-HI-Y participates in many charitable activities such as aiding the Ronald McDonald House. The year is highlighted by the Ideal Lady Tea held in the spring. At this Tea the senior girl members reveal the women whose values and ideals they have secretly admired and been influenced by during this important time in their lives.

FHA/HEC

The FHA/HEC is a nationwide organization formed to prepare youth for a future that will help them better understand their roles in the community. With the guidance of Miss Selsor the club besides organizing school functions such as the "Sweetheart Dance", and performing charitable acts, including preparing meals for the County Home and tray favors for the hospital, go to haunted houses and decorate for Christmas. Through these community activities and school functions each member has a chance to learn organizational skills which will broaden her understanding of herself.

GIRLS' CHOIR

A.

Practicing, singing, dancing, traveling and performing are all nouns to describe the DCHS choirs. They are composed of four groups: SWING CHOIR, consisting of students who sing and dance for community organizations and special events as well as school concerts; CONCERT CHOIR that performs for school concerts and special events, such as the Christmas celebration on the circle in downtown Indianapolis; GIRLS' and MENS' choir that performs at school concerts that are held during the fall, spring, and Christmas seasons.

Marching

The drums, the trumpets, the colorful flags are all a part of the D.C.H.S. band. One can hear the sleepy yawns of the students as they walk into the school from the early morning band practice. The band practices early almost every morning to get prepared for its performance at the Friday night football game. The waving flags and the echoing drums catch the fans' eyes and ears as they watch with enthusiasm the techniques and routines of the band. The drum majorette,

As we sit in our first hour class on Homecoming morning we can hear the sounds of the school song the band is playing from the LMC. The spirit of the band raises the spirits of the students to such a degree that everyone is ready to play against the opposing team.

The Drama Club prepares generally 2 or 3 productions a year. Included this year were "The Star Spangled Girl" and "Dark of the Moon."

"The Star Spangeled Girl" was a romantic comedy by Neil Simon. Sophia Rauschmeyer was played by Atlanta Barnett, Norman Cornwell was played by Brian Owens, and Andy Hobard was played by Randy Stamper.

"Dark of the Moon" is an eerie drama taking place in the Smokey Mountains. John the Witch, who is played by Scott Engle, falls in love with Barbara Allen, who is played by Angela McRoberts.

As Mr. Vitosky said, "We could not have chosen two more opposite plays to present: one, a light, small-cast comedy; the other, a dark, crowd-filled drama. The range of experience for our members has, this year more than most been indeed 'dramatic'."

Stage performance would not be possible without people building the set, the tech crew lighting the stage, and makeup and costume designers outfitting the performers. Long preparation and hard work assists in making all Danville's Drama Club productions successful. The Club members not only perform at DCHS but attend summer workshops and this year planned to attend a college theatrical production starring Marcel Marcaeu.

SPEECH CLUB

Impressing fellow classmates and teachers, learning to use a more sophisticated vocabulary and knowing when to use what word is all part of being a member of the Speech Club.

Students in the Speech Club prepare individually for speech meets and contests where they earn rewards such as trophies and ribbons for their efforts.

There are several categories in which the speech students may compete. Pam Stamper was a leading speaker for Broadcasting as well as Atlanta Barnett in poetry reading, and Kevin Steele in Oratorical interpretation. Other categories include impromptu, national extemporaneous, foreign extemporaneous, discussion, original oratory, dramatic interpretation, humorous interpretation, due interpretation, and prose reading.

Painters, sketchers, and sculpters are among the types of artists who make up the Art Club at Danville High School. Under the direction of Mrs. Kisner, the club participated in Middle Country's third annual Renaissance Festival by manning two booths and demonstrating whitesmithing and paper making. The club has added a sculptured clay piece by artist/craftsman, Aline Cain, to its visual collection on display in the halls of the high school. They are truly a busy group of artists.

Canoe trips, fossil expeditions, and cave explorations are all activities the Science Club takes part in during the year. They meet once a month with the goal of increasing scientific learning outside the classroom and to also have a good time. Recently the club has acquired a Burmese Python named "Monty". He is about ten feet long and is approximately eighty pounds. Monty will be available as a learning device for all students in the Danville school system.

SCIENCE CLUB

C.O.E., Cooperative Office Education, is a new group formed at DCHS. It is only open for Seniors who are advanced in their typing skills. It is a 2 hour per day course. The first semester is spent on "polishing up" filing, bookkeeping, answering phones, typing, and office behavior. During the second semester, the students are placed in a business office in the community. Here they will work for 2 hours four days a week. On the fifth day the students are at school getting further training. Mrs. Mabel Gibbs, the class instructor, says, "The purpose of this class is to give students office experience and develop their self-confidence." If the placement is successful, many students will be hired by their semester employer upon graduation.

Working together, making everything fit into place and meeting deadlines is Publications. The Pow Wow and the Tom Tom are the two class projects during the year. Long hours and broken pencil leads go into the production. Revising, recopying, revising, and editing and revising in hopes of making each page flawless is an endless project. The time spent to produce such projects is worth it in the long run when students comment favorable after seeing their faces and names in print which makes the long hours and revisions seem so far away. It is the finished product that reassures us that our work was successful.

Sugar -n- Spice

Mrs. Helen Disney, who has been with the Danville Community School System for thirty years as the meal supervisor, is in charge of all the buildings meals. She coordinates the foods with the holidays and student's tastes.

Mrs. Disney has been a great asset to the High School as well as the community. It is easy to see her concern for and interest in the students by the extra things she does. The freshly baked cookies in the morning for early arriving students, the fresh pastries at the Homecoming Spirit Breakfast, a tasty casserole for Senior Breakfast as well as various items necessary for all Sports Banquets are her specialities. These kinds of things are what the students at D.H.S. have come to expect and respect in Mrs. Disney's work.

PROM
"One More

On May 11, 1985 the Junior class president, Tim Whicker, welcomed the Senior class to the prom at the Atkinson Hotel. Dan Forbes, Senior class president, responded and an unforgettable evening was underway. Ordinary school girls were transformed into beautiful young women in long, rustling gowns and their handsome, well-dressed escorts led them onto the dance floor to sway to the music of "Promise." New manners, new emotions, and new images of self seemed to be assumed for the evening.

Throughout the evening, excitement filled the air as everyone waited for the announcement of the prom King and Queen. A radiant Margaret Clark was crowned Queen and soon her tall King, John Atto, was dancing by her side. It was such a glittering, ecstatic night that the memories will remain as sharp, glittering images for many years.

James Surber was awarded the "most likely to lose his hair from brushing."

Images We Create

A look at ourselves.

Give me a break.

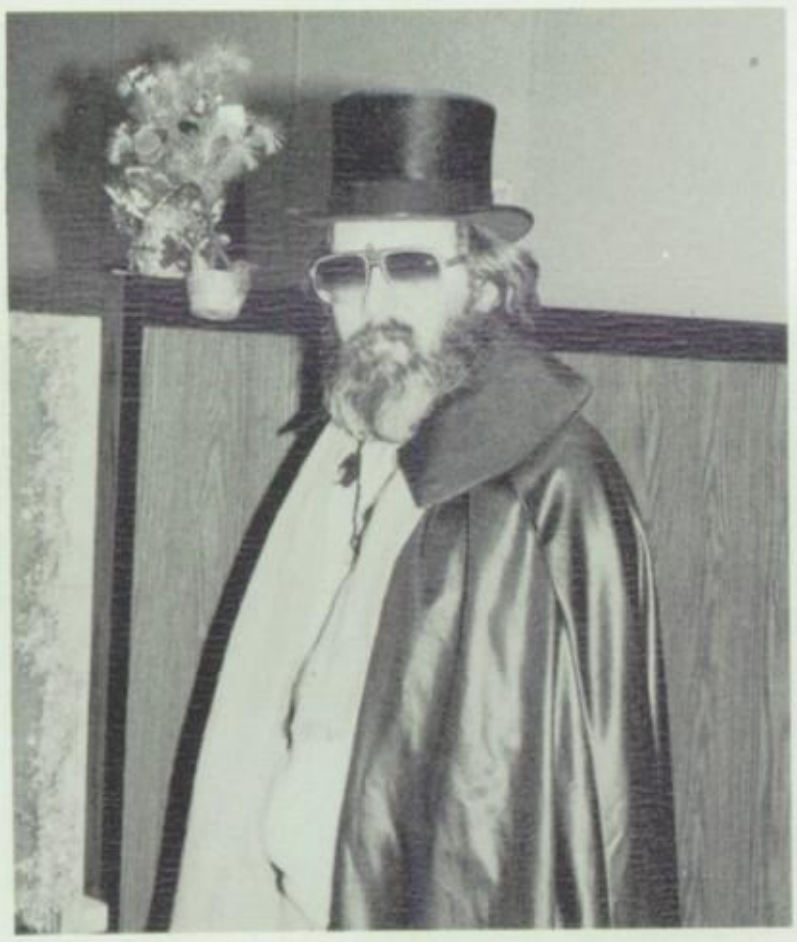
Jim's not camera shy.

Oh, it's just you.

Anybody got a quarter?

You went out with who?!

It was this big.



Vito the Baron.

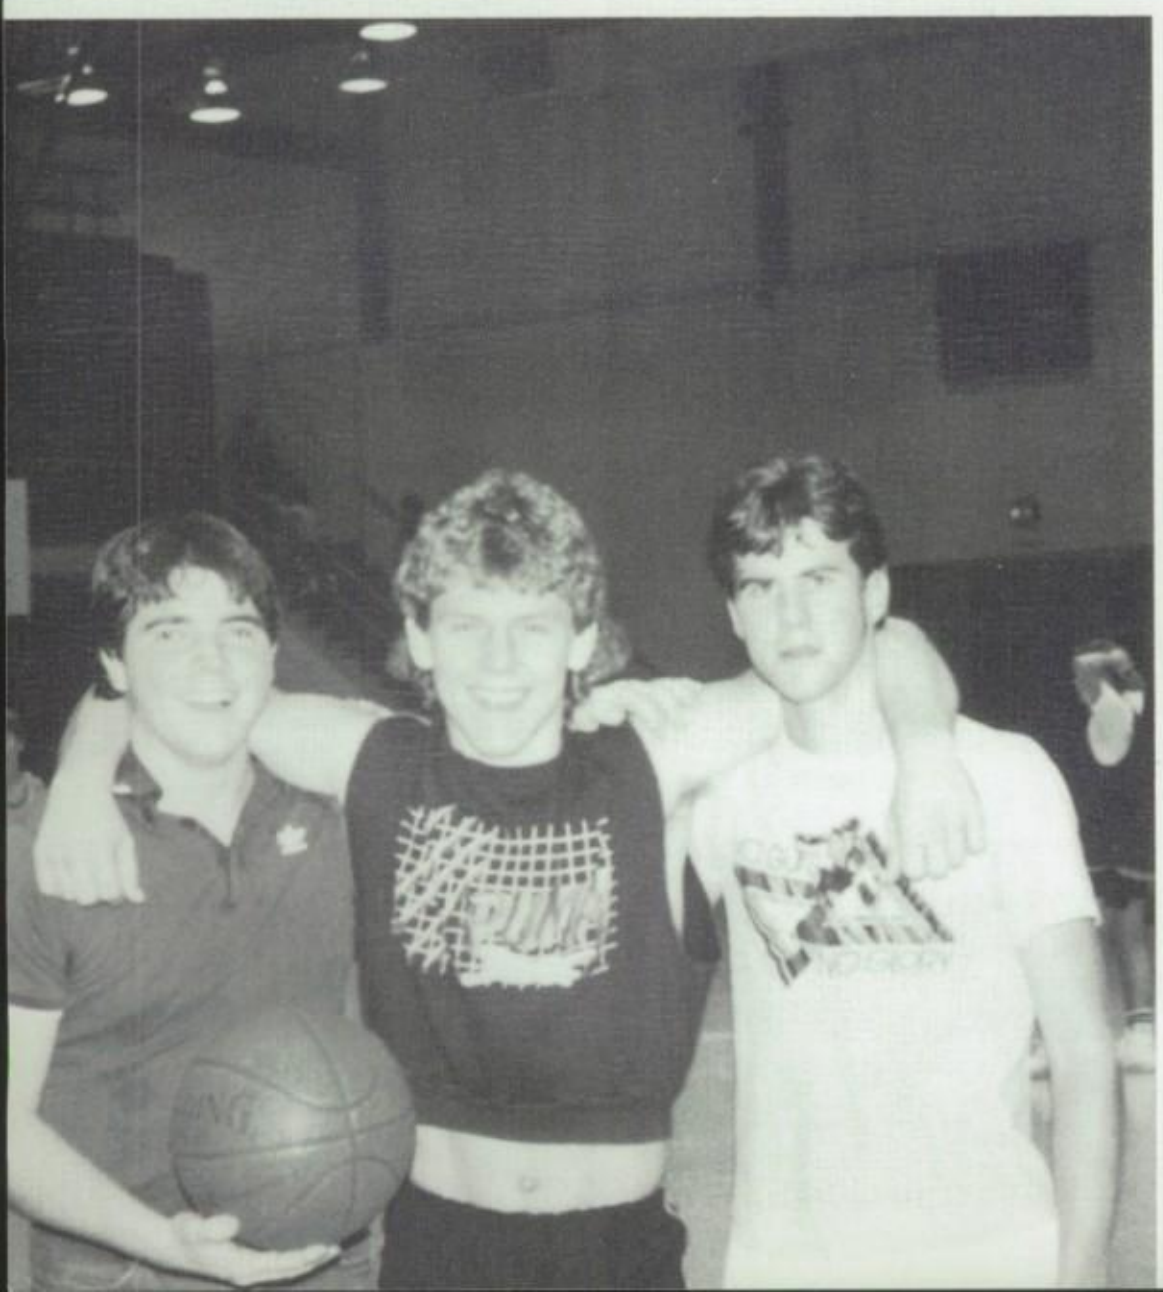
James earns, Mike learns. Who's the loser?

Keep your chin up Francie.

Mr. Rogers

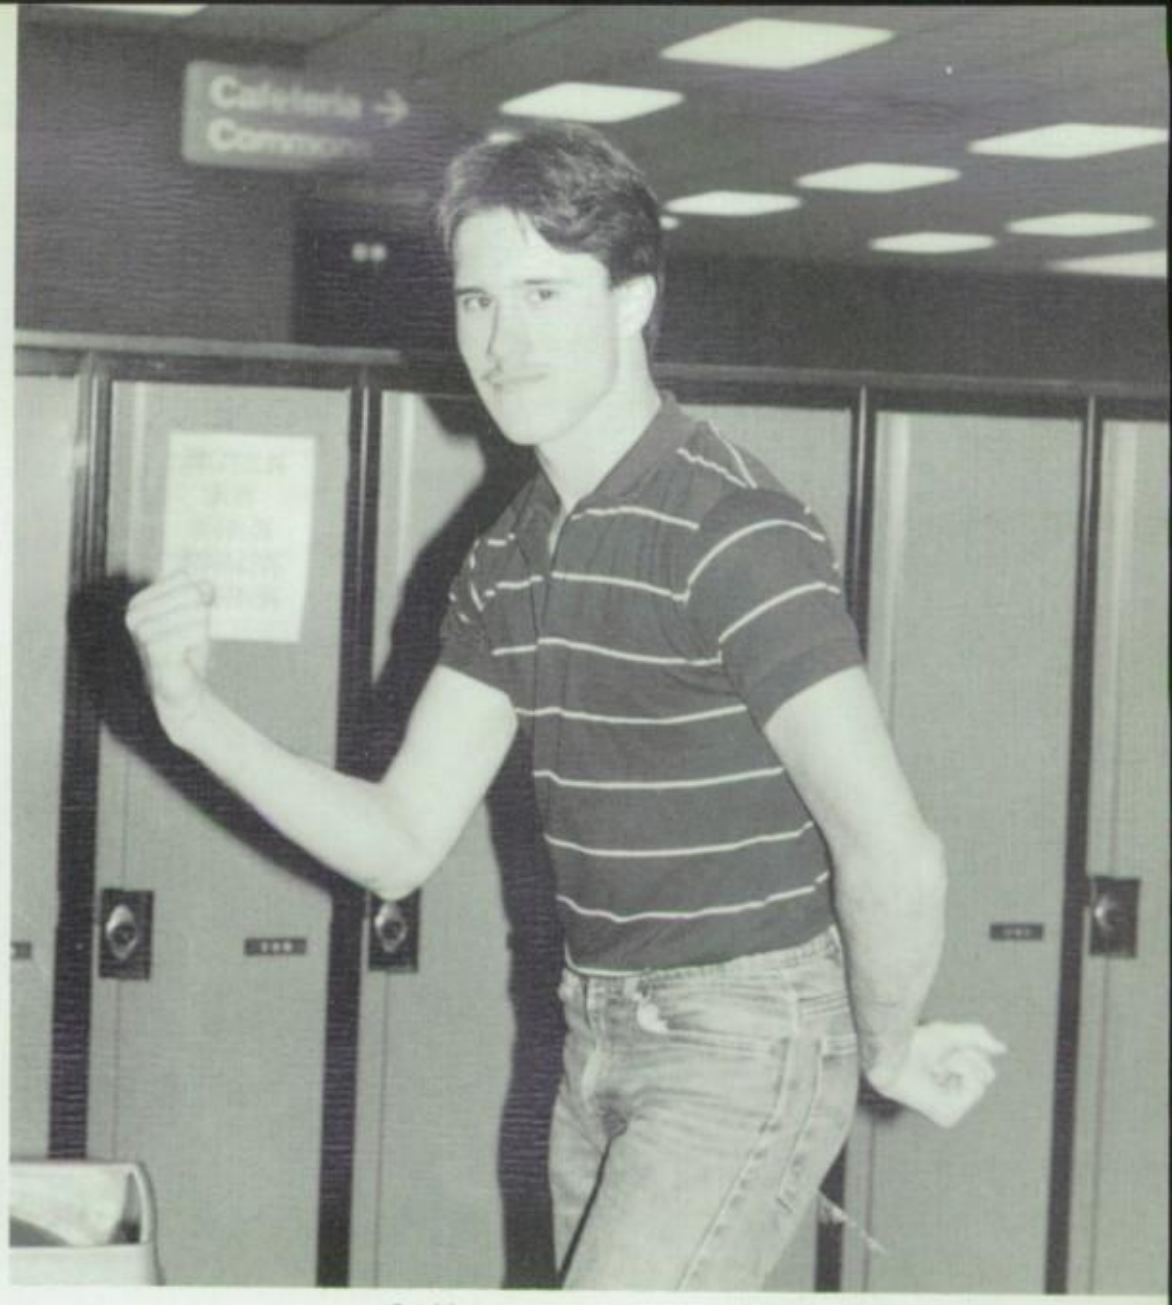
We love to paint.

Good Friends



We break for a moment of prayer.

Reach out and touch someone.



Could this be Mr. Universe 1986?

Peek-a-boo!

Images if pride, images, of sports, images of teachers, images of friends, images of classmates—a reflection of 1985-86.

While turning the pages of this book, we from the Tom Tom staff, hope we have been able to capture for all at DCHS, the hopes, dreams, successes, happiness and yes, even the failures that are the images of ourselves.

Special Thanks to these people—
